THE LEFTOVERS

Yule Tree Sales Better Than Ever

By JANET PARKER

Last minute Christmas tree shoppers may be in for a bargain or a big disappointment.

It's been a good season for Christmas tree sales all the way around, from the cut-tree lot to the living tree to the artificial products.

While some cut tree lot owners went out of business as early as Friday, nurseries also say their living Yule trees are going faster than ever.

Department stores say that, for economical reasons, many families are turning to the artificial trees in all shapes, sizes and colors to be used in years to come. Only the distinct evergreen fragrance is missing.

If lots aren't already out of business, their selection is scant and last minute shoppers had better be sympathetic toward the less-than-perfect tree.

Dexter's Tree Lot at Citation and El Camino in San Bruno has been out of trees for nearly a week.

"We didn't overstock this year," said Ernest Wintree of Redding, one of the salesmen.

With the lot already disassembled Monday,

Wintree said they started with 1,400 trees right after Thanksgiving.

The tree this year, he and other lot proprietors agreed, are of better quality than ever.

Smaller lots, Wintree said, usually have the freshest trees. There were cut only a few days before they arrived at the San Bruno site.

Christmas tree shoppers, Wintree said, aren't discouraged from buying cut trees as a result of living tree publicity.

"It's more or less a thinning situation, anyway," Wintree said. Most trees are from areas in which trees needed to be cut anyway.

Two South San Francisco High School graduates run a tree lot at Westborough and El Camino Real in South San Francisco and they say that discount prices on trees brought about good sales this year.

Their trees were all $7 or less and they'll bring the price down even further tonight.

"Last year we were experimenting," said Gary Oakes. "We plan to sell most all our trees this year. We're not even making a profit now. We're just getting them off the lot."

Joel Goodin, who also works there, said if some of the trees are left tonight, they may be giving them away.

Monday, they had only 75 of their original 2,000 trees. Brian Mauck of Palo Alto started out with 1,500 trees on his lot on Hickey Boulevard across from Serramonte Shopping Center. He has a few hundred left today.

Location of a lot, he said, has a lot to do with good sales.

John and Lynn Pettlon of McKinleyville are new in the business but trees at their lot at the corner of Seabiscuit and Citation in San Bruno also has sold well.

They started with 1,800 trees and have only about 200 left.

Their problem now is what to do with the left-over trees.

Mrs. Pettlon said she was phoning Salvation Army and other charitable organizations to see if they could use the trees.

However, Helaine Rubinstein, staff supervisor of the area Salvation Army, said TREE SALES, Page 2

By FRANK LAPIERRE

A Vietnam War veteran put on his U.S. Marine Corps jungle combat uniform Monday afternoon, picked up a 30-30 caliber rifle and called Daly City Police Dispatcher Joe White.

"There's going to be a shooting," Spencer Lloyd Bell, 26, told White.

After informing the dispatcher where the shooting would be, Bell calmly walked out of the home he shared with his parents at 561 Westmoor Ave., Daly

City and stood waiting in the street.

Soon officer James Richardson arrived on the scene and confronted Bell from several yards away.

The police officer, veteran of five years on the Daly City police force, ordered Bell to drop the rifle.

Instead, the young, unmarried man, who only last June was discharged from the Marine Corps, strode toward the officer.

"He (Bell) was dressed in combat boots and jungle combat fatigues with a web belt. There was a bayonet strapped to the belt," police reported.

Slowly the officer took refuge behind the door of his patrol car and, according to reports, again ordered Bell to drop his weapon.

Unheeding Richardson's orders, Bell allegedly pointed the rifle at the officer.

A few minutes after he walked out of the house into the street, Bell lay critically wounded, a police bullet in his chest.

Richardson fired two shots from his .38 caliber police special.

One bullet struck Bell in the chest, the other hit the rifle stock and wounded the ex-Marine in the armpit area.

A spokesman at Mary's Help Hospital said Bell was in "guarded" condition Tuesday following surgery. It was learned that Bell had been despondent over his inability to get a job since his discharge from the military six months ago.

Whether this had anything to do with the incident was not known, Police Chief David Hansen said.

Hansen said the matter is still under investigation.

"Anytime one of our officers discharges a weapon, we conduct an investigation. We want to know exactly what happened. It's standard operating procedure in our department," the chief said.

Bribe Try Jails Man

The former sales manager for a South San Francisco technical school was arrested Monday after he allegedly appeared to accept a bribe for not testifying in actions against the firm where he had been employed.

Booked at county jail on a charge of soliciting a bribe was Wallace Russell Kelly, 50, of 4727 Callan Drive, Daly City, former sales manager for Jetma Technical Institute.

District Attorney's Investigator Jack Stuart reported that Kelly, who left the Jetma firm last August, contacted Mrs. Anna Lee, a co-owner with Fred Lee, of Jetma, and proposed disappearing for three months in order that he could not be located to give testimony against Jetma before a Federal Trade Commission hearing in San Francisco, and in a civil suit against the school by the San Mateo County Legal Aid Society.

The Lees contacted their attorney, who notified the district attorney's office.

Stuart said that, at his direction, the Lees agreed to the proposal and arranged to meet Kelly at the International Inn Coffee Shop. When Lee handed Kelly $3,000 in cash, the latter was arrested by Stuart and officers of the County Organized Crime Unit and the South San Francisco police department. Bail for Kelly was set at $5,000.

New Election Rules Told

Daly City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf has announced new rules which will apply to the March 2 municipal elections around the county.

Under the new law, there will be an extension of six days — until noon of Dec. 30, 1975 — for registered voters to nominate a candidate other than an incumbent candidate, if the incumbent does not file by the usual Dec. 24 deadline, according to Mrs. Ohlendorf.

"Whoever is nominated at this time (Dec. 30) must also file a disclosure statement with the papers," she said.

Nine Are Interested In 2 Council Seats

Nine persons have taken out nomination papers for the upcoming March 2, 1976, municipal elections in Daly City. They will be vying for two seats — those of Councilmen Anthony Giammona and Paul Hupf.

It is not expected that Hupf will file for re-election. He announced several months ago that he would step aside in this election.

He served one term on the city council and will resume his fulltime law practice.

The first person to file with City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf, was Anthony Giammona, incumbent councilman and former mayor.

Giammona filed his nomination papers Friday.

Monday morning, Richard Walsh filed.

Those persons taking out nomination papers, but not filing as of Monday,

include:

James Tucker, Richard Silver, George "Ron" Darling, Del Wilson, Michael DeBernardi, Al Teglia and Mrs. Reva Krips.

Both DeBernardi and Wilson are former members of the city council. DeBernardi was defeated in his bid for re-election in 1970, while Wilson was defeated in 1958.

City Clerk Ohlendorf and City Treasurer Anthony Zidich also have filed for re-election.

Zidich may be opposed in the race by former Finance Department employee Marion Lasky.

Meanwhile, seven persons have taken out nomination papers in Colma, where three seats are up for grabs.

Both incumbent councilmen Fred Garbini and Al Belli have indicated they will seek re-election, however. Councilman Wallace H. Honeywell as yet has not taken out nomination papers for re-election.

Others taking out nomination papers include:

Ray Lencioni, a floral supply company employee; Paul G. Howe, Cypress Lawn Cemetery employee and the city's part-time building inspector; Philip C. deBaca, son-in-law of former councilman Earl Taylor and manager of Pet's Rest Cemetery; Richard R. Valleria, son of former councilwoman Rena Valleria; and, Raymond J. Ottoboni, son of Councilman Raymond Ottoboni.

Ottoboni was ousted from his police officer's job earlier this year on a 3-1 vote of the city council. One seat was vacant.

Group Says SP Co. Should Seek Subsidies

Instead of selling its commuter service on the Peninsula, the Southern Pacific Company should seek subsidies to continue operations, a commuter group said in San Francisco Monday.

Peter Milward, chairman of the Peninsula Commute & Transit Committee, charges that SP has over the years continually refused to participate in joint talks operation of its Peninsula services with "outside" agencies.

Last week, SP Vice President Denman McNear informed a meeting of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission that SP would be willing to sell part of its right-of-way and equipment to a public transit agency for "something less than $200 million."

And while Milward said his group was "delighted" that SP at least has acknowledged concern with the problem, some of the conditions set by the railroad company indicate the cost of taking over the failing system would be about $300 million.

SP maintains it is losing some $5 million annually on the commuter operation.

It wants out of the business, providing the entire commuter line — from San Jose to San Francisco — is bought.

Milward, however, voiced fears that "former Lionel (toy) train operators" might be carried away with ideas of playing games with real trains.

With SP's years of business experience in railroad operations failing to bring the Peninsula commuter line out of the red, a new agency lacking this expertise would probably show an even greater loss, Milward said.

For its part, SP has continually shied away from any government subsidies in its operations.

It was pointed out last week by a transit expert, who asked not to be identified, that records available

SANTA CLAUS IN DISGUISE?

Sal Mango, owner of the Westlake Bicycle Shop at 40 Park Plaza Drive, Daly City, heard about a young Daly City boy who wasn't particularly looking forward to Christmas because his family couldn't afford any toys this year. The usually tough talking, cigar chomping ex-Marine decided to play Santa Claus — without the beard and red suit. He picked out one of his most popular models and presented it to the boy Monday. Says Mango: "When I was a boy I never had a bike. I just try to help whenever I can."

High Schools Try Smoking Areas

South San Francisco's school board decided Thursday to try out legislation which will permit smoking by high school students at designated areas on campus.

The action is permitted through state law by Sen. Arlen Gregorio's (D-San Mateo County) Senate Bill 171, which becomes effective Jan. 1.

Now, it will be up to a committee at the high schools, El Camino and South San Francisco, to determine that designated area. The trustees made it clear, however, that the smoking areas will be tried for six months, with an evaluation at the end of the spring semester.

At the same time, the district will undertake educational programs to discourage students from smoking.

The board's approval of the measure came after more than 1 1/2 hours of debate and months of contemplation.

Parents argued that it was hypocritical to discourage smoking, but allow it in certain locations.

Students argued that other students already are smoking on campus and infringing upon the rights of non-smoking students.

The board's student representative, Lyn Moe, who said he was a smoker, said students at South San Francisco smoke in one of the three bathrooms or the locker rooms.

"There's a certain amount of permissiveness right now when a teacher walks by a locker room and ignores the fact there are 200 students in there smoking," Moe said. "I've seen administrators walk by the locker room and not glance either way."

Moe said it's a matter of protecting the rights of the majority, the non-smokers.

"The majority are saying they are sick and tired of not being able to use the bathrooms, sick and tired of having sinks ripped off the walls," Moe said.

"I don't see how a teacher walking down the hall should feel obligated to put a student on referral," he said.

Two other students, Andrew Wong and Leanna Kielian of South San Francisco High, presented photographs of the restrooms at their school showing cigarette butts filling the basins.

"We don't condone smoking," said Miss Kielian. "We want to get smokers out of the way of non-smokers."

Students are loitering around neighboring properties, she said.

"We feel the school has a responsibility to have smoking areas on campus where the administration can watch these students," she said. "The administration is not doing a very effective job of enforcing non-smoking."

Several parents felt differently. Ruth Fee said granting smoking areas would be "a giant step backward."

Youthful Soldiers Head for Home

Christmas season is troop movement time for the U.S. Army, the time when soldiers in training are allowed to go home — often on their first leave since being inducted. Thousands of them have moved through San Francisco International Airport, pausing to rest, read magazines, play the guitar at the USO, or just hike the hallways and wait.

indicate SP is showing a $5 million annual loss of its commuter system, while at the same time is making $100 million from freight operations. Another problem Milward foresees, if SP's proposed routing from San Jose to San Bruno on the main line, and then to Daly City where it will connect with BART, is accepted, is the hundreds of residents of the bayshore areas of South San Francisco, San Francisco and Brisbane who will be without service. Daly City could not handle the additional traffic and passenger problems expected to be generated by another transit line into Daly City. Milward warned. The 3-year-old transit committee claims a membership of 300 commuters, mostly Peninsulans.

said their organization and others like it have little use for the leftovers. They've already given away many trees, she said.

and after today the leftovers will go to the dumps.

"We donated as many as we could," she said. "We don't have any better way to get rid of them than anyone else."

Artificial trees, however, will be accepted since they can be saved for needy groups in 1976.

So, most tree lot owners are planning to rent mulchers to destroy their leftovers or dispose of them at the dumps.

Despite the success of the tree lots this year, living tree sales are better than ever, said Hugh Hahn of Peters and Wilson Nursery in Millbrae.

They're a little more expensive, he said, but permanent.

Young parents, he said, tell him they want a living tree so it will grow with their children.

There already are projections for Christmas, 1976. Lot owners say they are expecting better quality trees and more of them.

And some proprietors say they are learning by experience. "We could have sold a lot more this year," said Wintree.

Mental Health Volunteers

About 50 volunteer representatives of Mental Health Associations in seven Bay Area Counties, including San Mateo, made a special orientation tour of Napa State Hospital Dec. 16.

State Assemblyman Dixon Arnett of Redwood City was a member of the group reviewing the current conditions of the hospital, inducing an awareness of needs for improvement and change of operation.

Several San Mateo patients were interviewed by the visiting group. Some members of the San Mateo delegation were also members of the Parents of Adult Schizophrenics, Parents of Autistic Children, and the Peninsula Association for Retarded Children and Adults.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Tis the day before Christmas and I hope you will take just a few minutes to cut out this column and set it aside for next Monday. Then you will have time to sit down and think about serving this economical dish.

The hearty meals that mother used to prepare not only were tasty, more often than not they were relatively inexpensive to make. With food prices still continuing to rise, now is a good time to borrow a leaf from Mom's recipe book.

She would approve of this recipe for nutritious Salmon Squares with Mushroom Pea Sauce. Cottage cheese, milk and eggs enrich the protein content of this savory meal-in-a-dish.

SALMON SQUARES WITH MUSHROOM PEA SAUCE

2 cups cooked rice
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups (16 oz.) cottage cheese
1 can (1 lb.) salmon, drained and flaked
1 small onion, finely chopped
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 teaspoons soy sauce
1 cup soda cracker crumbs

In large mixing bowl, combine the two cups cooked rice, two beaten eggs, two cups cottage cheese, one can salmon, one small onion, chopped, one-fourth cup chopped green pepper and two teaspoons soy sauce. Blend and pour into a greased 9x13-inch baking pan. Sprinkle the one cup cracker crumbs over top. Bake in 350-degree oven for 40 minutes or until firm in center. Cut in squares. Serve with Mushroom Pea Sauce.

MUSHROOM PEA SAUCE

3 tablespoons butter
1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
3 Tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups cooked peas
2 Tablespoons chopped pimento

Cook the four ounces mushrooms in the three tablespoons melted butter for 5 minutes. Stir in the three tablespoons flour and one teaspoon seasoned salt. Gradually add the one and one-half cups milk. Cook until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in the one and one-half cups peas and two tablespoons chopped pimento, cooking until hot. Spoon over Salmon Squares. Serve 8.

A TOAST

A wine tasting party to benefit the Florence Crittenton Center in San Francisco was held at the Westlake Community Center recently. Vivian Duncan, former vaudeville singing star of the Duncan Sisters, provided entertainment. With Vivian Duncan (center) are Mrs. Albert Teglia, (left), president of Peninsula Auxiliary of Florence Crittenton Services, and Marja Virjo, guitarist who also entertained.

Crockett Stars With Holiday on Ice Here

Jimmy Crockett, known by fans everywhere for his dramatic flowing technique, will be seen when Holiday on Ice comes to the Cow Palace for six performances from Jan. 14.

Crockett holds the title of "World's Professional Ice Skating Champion" which he won last spring in Jaca, Spain. This is the only skating meet sanctioned by the International Skating Association and the entrants are all personally invited to compete.

His interest in skating began at age 13 at the Culver City ice arena near his home.

He wanted to be on, or at least near, the ice, morning, noon and night, so he worked around the rink.

By saving his money, he was able to get some formal instructions.

Crockett made so much progress that he was quickly ready for competition but never got the chance to compete.

By accepting a monetary Christmas gift in exchange for helping some youngsters, he was labeled "professional."

Scouts for Holiday on Ice saw him at age 16 and decided he had the makings for stardom, he proved them right.

A PRO ON ICE

Jimmy Crockett is a World's Professional Skating Champion. His jumps, spins and triple loops are featured in his two performances with Holiday on Ice at the Cow Palace for six shows from January 14.

Crockett is an avid sports fan and has many interests outside the skating business. Last spring he achieved one of his goals in obtaining his pilot's license.

Tickets for Holiday on Ice may be purchased at all regular ticket agency outlets and Cow Palace Box Office.

Show times are nightly at 8 p.m. with matinees at 2 p.m. Jan. 3 and 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. on Jan. 4.

SF Symphony Concerts Slated for New Year's

French conductor Michel Plasson and renowned American mezzo-soprano, Frederica von Stade will be presented with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra in a New Year's celebration.

Featured as the third concert in a series of special event programs, the New Year's extravaganza will be presented at Flint Center, De Anza College, Cupertino Dec. 29 and at the Opera House Dec. 30 and 31.

Led by Guest Conductor Michel Plasson, The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra will perform overtures to Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," Rossini's "Barber of Seville," Strauss' "Die Fledermaus," the Fete Polonoise from Chabrier's "Le Roi Malgre Lui," Dukas' entrancing "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" and the ever popular Hungarian March from Hector Berlioz' "The Damnation of Faust."

Maestro Plasson will make his San Francisco debut after recently returning from a triumphant tour with the famed Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra.

As general director of one of France's most prestigious orchestras, the Toulouse Orchestra, Michel Plasson is considered one of his country's foremost young conductors.

Frederica von Stade returns to the Opera House after last year's highly acclaimed portrayal of Beatrice in Berlioz' "Beatrice and Benedict."

Miss von Stade will interpret two arias from "The Marriage of Figaro," Voi che sapete and Non so piu, the scene and aria, Nacqui all'affanno — non piu mesta, from Rossini's "La Cenerentola" as well as three arias from Offenbach operas, Dites-lui qu'on l'a remarque, from "The Grand Duchess of Gerolstein," O, mon cher amant, and Ah, quel diner je viens de faire, from "La Perichole."

This year you can celebrate the arrival of 1976 in a gala, festival fashion.

Bring your friends and the family and enjoy an evening of music with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.

Ticket prices are from $4 to $11.50 and are on sale at the Symphony Box Office, Fine Arts Box Office and all major ticket agencies.

Secretaries Slate Meeting

Louanne Heath

Merry Christmas, everyone! Best wishes for a wonderful holiday filled with the warmth of love and the joy of good friends and glow of happy memories.

THE SOFT TONE of English hand bells, the beauty of a harpsicord, and the assembled voices of the chancel and youth choirs will welcome the advent of Christmas tonight at Lakeside Presbyterian Church.

The candlelight service will begin at 11 p.m. and conclude with a candlelight procession at midnight. Music will begin at 10:15 p.m.

THE DAYS are numbered for good-old-1975 and so are the number of days left for you to purchase tickets to Freedom and Frolic, the new Year's Eve Party to be held in the Our Lady of Mercy parish hall.

Mrs. Robert Brizuela, publicity chairman for the party, reports that December 29 will be the last possible day for persons to get tickets to the party being sponsored by the parish's Men's and Women's groups.

The fun will begin at 7 p.m. with no host cocktails and dinner will be served at 9 p.m.

Mrs. Donald Bechtel and Noel Mertens are the chairmen and Mrs. Julian Fernando the reservations chairman. Mrs. Fernando will accept checks, for $25 per couple through Monday, and will answer questions about tickets if you call 992-1914.

Al Borelli's band will play.

MRS. EMMETT TIERNEY reports that there isn't another Santa Claus or Panda Bear left in the Friends of the Library's book mark collection... everything was sold out during the two day pre-holiday sale in the Westlake and Serramonte libraries.

Faithful workers who helped with the sale are Mrs. Emma Arieta, Mrs. Olga Canada, Mrs. Frances Fischer, Mrs. Lois Manbert, Mrs. Marie Meyer, Mrs. Leah Reed, Mrs. Denise Schwarzbach and Janice Tierney.

Mrs. Tierney was chairman of the fund raising effort.

Mrs. Mambert and Mrs. Tierney have been busy all month with library doings. Earlier in December they were the official representatives of the Annual Friends of the California Libraries Convention which was held in the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco. Other members of the Daly City Friends of the Library who attended the convention were Mrs. Gertrude Kendree and Mrs. Verna Teglia, both of whom are trustees.

Samuel Chandler

Forever-and-ever poets have loved Christmas. From the days when Mary sang in anticipation of the birth of her Child, the Christ Child, until now they have sung their sweetest songs for Christmas.

Somewhat typical are lines from Patience Strong, a modern rhymester:

"Welcome, welcome grey December
Month of mingled gloom and glory
Sun and shadow, frost and snow
Weeping wood and silent garden
Firelit room and hearthside glow
Time of endings and beginning
Bring to a weary earth
Wonder of the Christmas message
Tidings of a Saviour's birth
Welcome, welcome grey December
With your gifts of hope and cheer
Light your lamp at winter's gate
And crown with joy the passing year."

YEARS AGO Phillip Brooks wrote of the power of the Christmas season to change mankind.

"Then let every heart keep its Christmas within,
Christ's pity for sorrow, Christ's hatred for sin,
Christ's care for the weakest, Christ's courage for right
Christ's dread of the darkness, Christ's love for the light.
Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas tonight!"

THE POETS see in the Christmas celebrating the deep sense of the service that each man owes to others. So an unknown poet wrote as many others have done.

"The bread that bringeth strength I want to give,
The water pure that bids the thirsty love
I want to help the fainting day by day,
I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.
"I want to give the oil of joy for tears,
That faith to conquer crowding doubts and fears.
Beauty for ashes may I file away
I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.
"I want to give good measure running o'er,
And into angry hearts I want to pour
The answer soft that turneth wrath away
I'm sure I shall not pass again this way."

RACHEL FIELD urges man to get the Christmas spirit and keep it throughout the year:

"Before the festive berries fall
Like jeweled rain; before the tree
That stands in aromatic green
Is stripped of shining finery;
Before the heart's high brimming cup
Holds one drop less of fiery dew—
Pray God that all of us may keep
One Christmas spark that whole year through."xr
THAT ONE SPARK of Christmas is the thing that excites many, many poets — Christiana Rossetti calls it spark love.
"Love came down at Christmas,
Love all lovely, So Divine,
Love was born at Christmas,
star and Angel gave the sign,
"Love shall be our token,
Love be yours and love be mine,
Love of God and all men,
Love for plea and gift and sign."

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q: When an insured worker dies, I hear social security pays a lump sum death payment, in addition to monthly survivor's benefits. How much is it and who gets it?

A: The benefit is $255 and it generally is paid to the widow or widower who was living with the worker. If there is no widow or widower, the $255 may be paid toward funeral expenses.

Answers provided by Miss Margaret Tang, Manager Social Security Office.

GIRL SCOUTING

Broadmoor Community Center was the site recently for the rededication ceremony of Daly City Girl Scout Association Junior Girl Scout troop 1535 led by Trish Sullivan and Lynn Hughes.

THE MIKE DRAKES
(Gayle Brauns)

Brauns-Drake

Friends and relatives of Gayle Brauns and Mike Drake gathered recently to witness the couple's marriage at St. Veronica's Catholic Church in South San Francisco.

The noon rites were followed by a reception at the San Mateo Elks Club.

Gayle is the daughter of Mrs. Irene Brauns of South San Francisco and the late Al Brauns. Al Tamorini, her uncle, escorted her to the altar.

For her wedding, the bride wore an ivory Empire gown fashioned with Victorian lace and a double ruffled hem. Members of her bridal party chose jersey dresses, also styled with a ruffled hemline.

Jan Abriani of Belmont, who wore burgundy, served as her sister's matron of honor, and Eileen Rise, sister of the bridegroom, shared secondary attendants' duties with Janeen Milhorn, Nance Pursch, Carol Welte, Linda Carter and Eileen Harris. The bridesmaids all wore dusty pink.

Mike asked his brother, Tom Drake, to be best man. Four other brothers, Dick, Jerry, Dan and Jim Drake, seated guests with Roy Abriani and Mike Young.

The newlyweds are both graduates of South San Francisco High School and Skyline College where the bridegroom studied business management. He also is the brother of Diane and Terry Drake, Mary Walters, Margie Lappe, and Kathy Tourtotte.

The couple is living now in South San Francisco.

Taylor-Shamieh Engagement Told

St. Dunstan's Catholic Church in Millbrae will be the setting Jan. 4 for the marriage of Carol Christine Taylor and Khalil Charles Shamieh.

The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Sheraton Inn in Burlingame.

A resident of San Francisco, the future bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Zach Taylor of San Mateo, and the sister of Mike and Jackie Taylor of San Luis Obispo, and Kathy Ghavimi of San Jose.

Carol, who was graduated from Frazee High School in Minnesota, is now in her senior year at San Francisco State. She belongs to the Order of the Eastern Star.

The prospective bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Assad Shamieh of Pacifica, is a 1975 graduate of the University of California at Berkeley. He has three brothers, Isam Shamieh of Pacifica, who will be his best man, and Ramzi and Riad Shamieh, also of Pacifica, who will share ushering duties with Shawki Shamieh of Daly City.

Khalil is the grandson of Mrs. Khadra Akel, and the nephew of Messrs. and Mesdames A.L. McDow, Emile Qirreh, Isa Zaru, Yousef Shamieh, Fuad Shamieh and George Shamieh.

The bride-to-be has asked her sister Jackie to serve as her maid of honor, and her sister, Kathy, to share bridesmaid duties with Barbara Beeman of Camarillo and Shirley Matson of San Francisco.

Patrols presenting skits for their parents and friends included the "sunny day" patrol performing "alphabet soup," the "bumble bee" patrol presenting "The Ghost of Christmas," and the "five bears" patrol presenting "The Ghost of the Boon-docks."

Christmas Tree Safety Advice

An evergreen Christmas tree, laden with lights and gay ornaments, represents the spirit of Christmas and the joy of giving and of living.

Dried out, it is one of the most combustible things you'll ever have in your home, says the Pacifica Fire Department.

Spruce, fir, cedar and pine trees 6 to 7 feet tall require only 36 seconds after ignition to flame out, during which time flames up to 23 feet high are generated.

Their extreme flammability is produced when cut long in advance of use and brought indoors, where heat and low humidity accelerate drying.

Evergreen trees should be purchased fresh and kept up for as short a time as possible, always in water.

A fresh tree is green. Its needles are hard to pull from the branch and when bent between your fingers, fresh needles do not break. The trunk butt of a fresh tree is sticky with resin. When the trunk of a tree is bounced on the ground, a shower of falling needles shows the tree too dry for purchase.

Do not rely on chemical coatings or sprays to flame-proof a tree.

To retain its natural flame resistance due to water content, cut off one inch of trunk at an angle to help water absorption and set it in a sturdy, nontip tree stand containing water.

Add water at intervals to keep the water level above the cut.

Keep the tree clear of stairways which could provide a draft, doorways, fireplaces and other heat sources.

When water absorption stops, or the tree no longer passes the freshness test, it's time to take it down.

Overloading circuits with extra lighting is a common Christmas pitfall.

Any frayed wires, cracked sockets or loose connections on light strings?

If so, replace them with Underwriters' Laboratories-labeled lights.

When decorating, try to arrange lights so they don't touch needles. Use extension cords sparingly, never in tandem or near foot traffic, through doorways or under rugs. Use no more than three sets of lights per extension cord. Unplug lighting before you leave or go to bed.

If you think none of the foregoing applies to you because you have an artificial (plastic) tree, be aware that it should bear the UL label.

Some unlabeled plastic trees burn with extreme vigor.

If your Christmas tree ever catches fire, get everyone out fast, then call the Fire Department.

DC Credit Union Receives Award

The Daly City Employees Federal Credit Union of Daly City, California has earned a National Credit Union (NCUA) Thrift Honor Award for its success in stimulating savings among small savers, according to Edward T. Bernhoff, Regional Director, NCUA Region VI (San Francisco).

The credit union attained a monthly growth rate of 2.8 per cent in accounts under $20,000.

According to Bernhoff, this rate-of-growth was well above the average for federal credit unions of similar size.

On Sept. 30, the credit union had 603 members with total savings of $325,652.

The credit union, which was chartered in 1960, serves employees of the cities of Daly City and Brisbane, employees of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District, employees of the Daly City Redevelopment Agency, employees of the credit union, members of their immediate families, and organizations of such persons.

Lyle S. Church is president of the credit union and Henry L. Perotti is treasurer.

The National Credit Union Administration charters, supervises and insures more than 12,700 federal credit unions in the United States.

It conducts the Thrift Honor Award program to provide an incentive for federal credit union officials to encourage members with small accounts to include regular savings as a part of their family financial management plans.

THERE IS STILL TIME

Tickets to Our Lady of Mercy's annual New Year's Eve Dinner-Dance are still on sale. Noel Mertens and Mrs. Donald Bechtel, co-chairmen of "Freedom and Frolic" say the party will begin at 7 p.m. A sit down steak dinner will be served at 9 p.m. with dancing following to Al Borelli's Band. Tickets are $25 a couple and can be obtained from Reservations Chairwoman Mrs. Julian Fernando, 992-1914.

'Friends' Seek Old Books

At this holiday season when gifts of new books and records will be received, members of the Friends of the Daly City Library book fair committee are accepting donations of books and records no longer needed.

Donations may be left at any of the four public libraries.

The committee, keeping up-to-date, processes and prices donations at frequent intervals.

Proceeds from the book fairs make possible expenditures for items not available through the library's normal budget.

Beirne-Ordenez Wedding

St. Matthew's Catholic Church in San Mateo was the setting Monday afternoon for the marriage of Patricia Beirne and Gumer "Sonny" Ordenez, who will be making their first home in San Francisco.

The Rev. John K. Ring performed the 4 o'clock rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Beirne of San Mateo, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gumer Ordenez of Daly City.

After the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted their school friends at a reception at the Central Park Recreation Hall. The couple departed for a honeymoon in Yosemite after the celebration.

For her wedding, Patricia wore the ivory faille and Chantilly lace gown that her mother had worn on her wedding day 34 years ago. She carried a bouquet of tea roses and baby's breath.

Honor attendant for her sister was Joan Beirne, who wore an old-fashioned burgundy velvet gown and carried a bouquet of tea roses and baby's breath.

Sonny asked Andy Gach of Los Angeles to be his best man. Ushers included Doug Hirsch and Bill Beirne, brother of the bride.

A medical technician, the new Mrs. Ordenez is a graduate of San Jose State and St. John's Medical School.

Candlelight Rites Slated

The Rev. Bill G. Williams announces Christmas Eve worship at Our Redeemer's Lutheran Church, 609 Southwood Drive at El Camino Real, South San Francisco.

Candlelight services will be held at 5 and 11 p.m. on Christmas Eve. Special music will be provided at both services.

There will be no services on Christmas Day.

Jeff High Pact Talks Resumed

The Jefferson Union High School District is one of the last in the county in which teachers are working without a 1975-76 contract.

Negotiations in that district resumed just this week. They had broken down before fact-finding in September.

Since the release of a fact-finding report in November, no negotiations have taken place.

But the Certificated Employees Council, representing the teachers, and the district's designated representative, Dr. Harold Tonini, met Monday and are scheduled to meet again this coming Monday morning.

The two negotiating parties remain at odds on salary increase and binding arbitration in the final step of grievance procedures, according to both parties.

"We're closer to agreement than we were before fact-finding," said Lou Silberman, CEC chairman and a Serramonte High School teacher.

"The gap between what we requested and what has been offered is considerably less now," Silberman said.

But Tonini said, "We are still a ways from agreement."

Before the district and teachers entered fact-finding, the CEC had sought a 10 per cent salary increase.

At the same time, they had asked the district to approve binding arbitration but the district had responded, on the advice of the San Mateo County District Attorney's Office, that such action is illegal in the public sector.

The fact-finding report took up these issues and recommended a 2 per cent salary increase for all teachers and a maximum of 7 per cent should more funds become available.

The fact-finding team of three persons refused to act on the binding arbitration question, noting spending court decisions and the imminent repeal of the Winton Act, which governs school grievance procedures.

A third issue, sabbatical leaves, has been settled since fact-finding, both parties reported.

Tonini said that in Monday's session he presented proposals and the CEC, in turn, presented counter offers. They were forwarded to the Board of Trustees Tuesday night.

Help Wanted

Four local agencies have issued requests for volunteer help with the Volunteer Bureau-Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

ROLLINGWOOD SCHOOL — Persons to impart any aspect of the Chinese culture to an elementary school class. Art, song, crafts, history, dance, cooking and other subjects included.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — Aides to work with forms and process them.

HEART ASSOCIATION — Volunteers to stuff kits for block volunteers. There will be two shifts Monday through Friday. Typists also needed to help address 14,000 envelopes.

SAN MATEO COUNTY HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION — Someone with creative talents to help write articles for a newsletter to provide the community with information about the museum, past historical events and current programs. Typists also needed to help do the articles.

More information about these and other jobs may be obtained from the Volunteer Bureau's main office which is located at 119 Primrose Road, Burlingame. It is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Busing Denied

The Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees Wednesday night denied a request by a group of M. Pauline Brown area parents for busing of intermediate school students to Ben Franklin School.

The average walking distance for the students is about one mile, the district's administration pointed out, and board policy is to bus only those students residing two or more miles from their schools.

The administration report stated that six additional buses would be required to transport Ben Franklin students and others in similar situations.

Ken Reitz, by some curious coincidence, becomes the second native-born San Franciscan from Daly City in the history of the Giants in San Francisco to play third base for the Giants.

He also is only the second native-born San Franciscan from Daly City in the history of the Giants in San Francisco to play for the Giants at all. The other native from Daly City, of course, was Alan Gallagher. We're beginning to wonder if there isn't some sort of purifying process which must take place via third base and Daly City before a San Francisco-born baseball player can play with the Giants.

There might also be something about Mission High School that has to do with it. Gallagher went to Mission, and although Ken Reitz attended Jefferson High in Daly City, his father, Roy, is a Mission High grad.

Also, we'll bet, one of the happiest fathers in the National League.

Roy, who was quite a ball player himself, has always been one of the proudest and most supportive parents we've ever met. He was hurt when Roy Jr., a fine center fielder in the Giant farm system, couldn't make the big team despite some very impressive minor league records. If Kenny does nothing else for the Giants this year, he'll increase attendance; not only because he's pretty to watch at third base, but also because he has many followers and because his father alone should be able to pull in entire sections of box seats with his open enthusiasm.

As far as we're concerned, it's one of the smartest trades the Giants have made, since they've been in San Francisco, because it operates on two levels. Reitz will not only help on the field, but his presence will represent a large gain in public relations, an area in which the Giants have been sadly lacking for years.

It is too bad, though, that the Giants had to give up Pete Falcone for Reitz. For years they were short of left handed pitching quality, and now they no longer get some than they give it up before they've even had the chance to reap its full potential.

It is one of those rare trades, we predict, which will help both teams.

But in a sense, the Cardinals got the better of the deal because they apparently have a solid replacement for Reitz in Hector Cruz, a converted outfielder who was Minor League Player of the Year last season, while the Giants don't have a sure bet replacement for Falcone.

We have a sneaking suspicion, however, that they may be figuring on Bob Knepper, a 21-year-old southpaw who came up from Fresno as a non-roster player last year and nearly made the team through his showing in spring training.

Only his inexperience and the emergence of Falcone sent him to the Pacific Coast League, where he had a reasonably good year for a lamb. Reports are that Knepper has more stuff and a stronger arm than Falcone. But if Falcone ever finds his sharp control, he could embarrass the Giants.

We doubt that Reitz ever will. Although the Giants needed a power hitter at that position and Reitz has never hit more than seven homes in the Biggies, we believe that he'll make up for the long ball lack with his defense and a lot of singles and doubles.

Thus far, Reitz looks like a .265-.270 hitter, but there is evidence that he can do much better in San Francisco.

For the past two years in St. Louis he started out as baseball's hottest hitter, and then faded, especially during the long, hot summer. Although Ken is by no means frail, he isn't a bruiser, either, and, as a native of the Bay Area, he is used to playing his summer ball in a cool climate.

We have to believe that those blistering St. Louis summers took something out of him, and that cool San Francisco might add 25-30 points to an already fail lifetime batting average.

We don't think it inconceivable that with his father's rooting section and the Candlestick air conditioning system, Reitz could become a .300 hitting defensive genius of the 70s.

AMID ALL THE talk of the Reitz trade, another swap also involving a local boy went almost unnoticed. That was the big trade between the White Sox and Philadelphia, with the name player involved being 20 game winner Jim Katt.

Mike Buskey, formerly of Terra Nova High School, was part of the Katt package to Philadelphia, and some local people were distressed, believing that Buskey, who has been primarily a shortstop in the Chicago chain, would have had a better chance of breaking into the White Sox infield than of busting the Philly infield of Don Money, Larry Bowa and Dave Cash, considered by many to be one of the top two or three infields in baseball.

A point to remember, however, is that Philadelphia's prime extra infielder is Tony Taylor, a great veteran but also an old veteran, at an admitted age of 40. Buskey, who can play all three inner defense positions, just might be earmarked for Taylor's job.

And while we're writing of trades, our old maxim seems to be holding true. You remember, most trades (not all) are made to trade problems. That's how the Bonds for Murcer trade came about, as each player was a problem for his respective club, for whatever reasons. While Murcer seems to no longer be a problem for anyone except opposition teams, Bonds still has not, apparently, found his niche. Or how else can you explain the Yankees giving up — after one season — on a man who hit .270, clubbed 32 homers, stole 30 bases, drove in 85 runs and scored 91 on one leg?

THAT "EXPOSE" by the Washington Star concerning homosexual athletes was not only irrelevant, but a cheap shot. Worse, it wasn't even a scoop.

Any mature sports fan with half a brain should have long ago been able to figure out for himself that there is no rational reason why the occurrence of homosexuality in society in general should deviate (no pun intended) within the society of athletes.

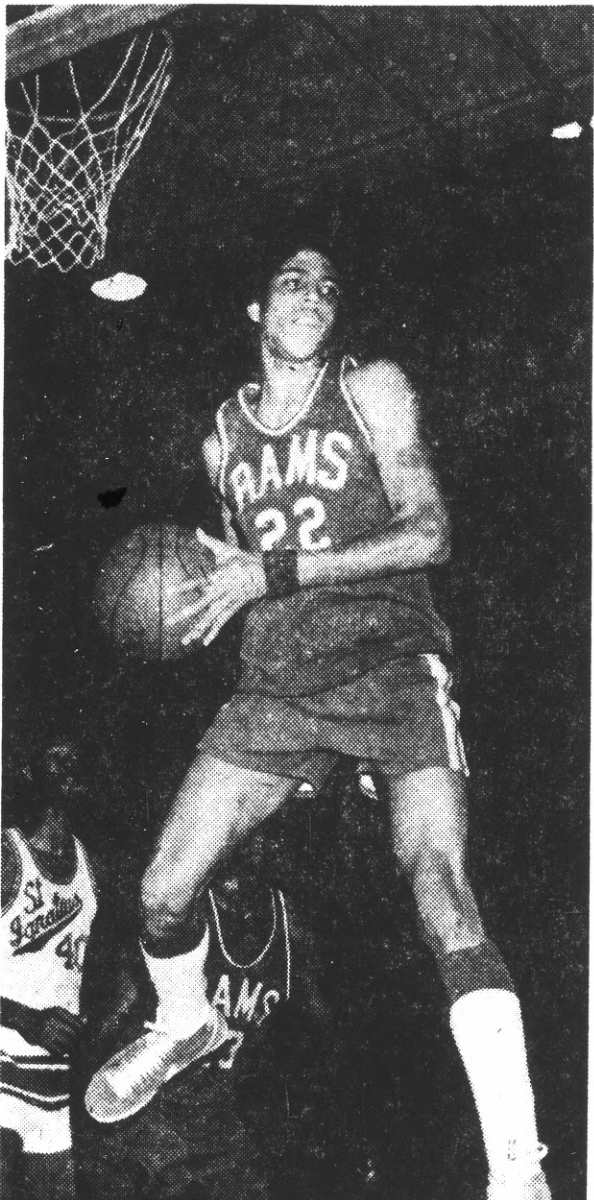

We pointed this out almost three years ago in a column attempting to explain to sports fans why they shouldn't have been shocked by what Lance Rentzel had done (although his behavior wasn't homosexually oriented) any more than they should be shocked by any man exposing himself to children. Rentzel, we pointed out, was just another mortal with mortal frailties.

As long as three or four years ago, San Jose State University sports psychologist, Dr. Bruce Ogilvie, pointed out that, "Just because someone is in a so-called 'manly' activity does not mean he is not capable of deviating from the sexual norm."

He added that, "About three to five percent of the male population in America is homosexual. I think it's safe to say that the same percentage of incidence would appear in any field." That, of course, was the same conclusion drawn by The Star after interviews with 60 athletes, coaches, sports officials, psychologists and members of the gay community. As we said, no scoop there.

The only unbelievable aspect of this whole "expose" to us was the quote from former 49er running back Dave Kopay, who came out of the huddle, speaking symbolically, to declare that he prefers sex with men.

Said Kopay, "I spent four years in San Francisco, playing football, dating women and making love, but not really letting my feelings out. I was uptight as hell. I never really admitted any of these feelings to myself until 1969, when I came to Washington. I saw — a cosmopolitan attitude where you could actually see gay people in bars or at a party, people I could relate to."

Westmoor High's Jerry McNeil, shown here pulling off rebound in last year's CCS playoff loss to the St. Ignatius Wildcats, will get a chance to avenge that loss tonight. McNeil is only 6-2, but a top leaper and strong rebounder.

CSM Cagers Topple Laney

By FRED BAER

MODESTO — Suddenly College of San Mateo's basketball team is a legitimate title contender in the Golden Gate Conference.

The Bulldogs might even be labeled title favorite after blasting preseason favorite and current leading ranked GGC team Laney, 85-66, Saturday night for third place in the tough Modesto JC tournament.

CSM will bring a 7-3 record to San Bruno Friday for a rematch with Skyline in the opening round of the Skyline tournament — which also includes strong Santa Ana (5-3) and defending champion Santa Rosa (7-2). CSM's record is now 7-3.

The 16-team Modesto tourney is considered the toughest affair in the state, however, and featured 10 state-ranked teams.

Unrated CSM downed No. 14 Fresno, No. 6 Ventura and No. 19 Laney in the tourney but bowed to co-No. 20 Contra Costa.

Revenge for Westmoor

By JERRY LITTELL
Westmoor High got a small measure of revenge for last season's loss to St. Ignatius in the Central Coast Section basketball regionals when the Rams downed the Wildcats Saturday night to win the 11th Annual El Camino Invitational.

Third place went to steadily improving Carmont after a 54-51 victory over Hillsdale, while defending tournament champion Serra overwhelmed Mills for the consolation trophy, 66-37. South San Francisco defended its seventh place finish of last year successfully by upending El Camino, 69-50.

St. Ignatius-Westmoor
Gone were the major stars of last year — St. Michael Bowie and Juan Mitchell and Westmoor's Ted Scott and Maurice Pittman. Those four dominated last year's play, but this time there was only one dominating factor, and he was wearing Westmoor green.

Jerry McNeil, the tournament's Most Valuable Player by unanimous vote, led the 48-45 victory over highly-rated St.

Both squads started slowly in a game played almost entirely in offensive spurts. Westmoor caught the first hot hand and six quick points gave the Rams a 15-6 quarter lead.

SI patiently fought back. The Wildcats' first lead came off the tip play to open the third period as Craig Bianchi hit a layin. Down 24-21 within two minutes, Westmoor came back to lead 31-26 lead behind the shooting of McNeil and Danny Williams.

The game remained tight until another quick outpouring, capped by Williams' 10-foot baseline jumper, gave the Rams a 42-37 margin. From then on the Rams were able to hold off a final SI rally by hitting six of seven free throw attempts in the last 1:14. Sophomore Mark Navarro hit a pair as did Chris Tyeskey and McNeil.

McNeil finished with six of Westmoor's 20 rebounds, 16 points and six blocked shots (one of which set a record for distance traveled backwards, landing well into the backcourt area and earning a standing ovation from the near-capacity crowd).

Carmont-Hillsdale
Carmont scored six straight points in the last three minutes to break open a close game and take third place 55-51.

Junior forward Jim Clark, who could be one of the better players around before this year is up, hit two free throws and a bucket and Dan Weeden added another two free throws to push the Scots up 54-49. Hillsdale came back with a bucket by Dean Christon, but time ran out on the Knights.

Hillsdale thus lost two tough games but still placed 40 players, center Terry Batchelder and guard Tom Lucas, on the All-Tourney team.

Serra-Mills
It was simply a case of Serra doing little wrong and Mills doing little right in the one-sided Padre victory. Every Mills effort was thwarted by a combination of Serra defense and Mills' often fumble-fingered attempts.

Center Brian Duffy dominated the inside game for the Rams and drew foul after foul even when his basket attempts failed. Eleven Vikings shared the 37 points.

South SF-El Camino
Joe Monroy's 24 points and a running offense which got better as the subs took over gave South City its first win of the season.

Carmont continued its poor free throw shooting, having missed 18 against Mills on Friday, by hitting only eight of 19 against the Warriors, making the three-point play virtually obsolete.

Both squads went into Friday night's action as heavy favorites, and both came within moments of being upset.

St. Ignatius had to score six straight points in the final three minutes to gain a 44-41 win over surprisingly tough Carmont.

Westmoor withstood a second-half Hillsdale speed-up offense to win 47-44.

In the consolation bracket, Serra downed South San Francisco 61-52 and Mills beat El Camino 61-56.

El Camino was scheduled to play South SF for seventh place today at 3 p.m. Following that game, Serra was slated to meet Mills for fifth place. Hillsdale plays Carmont for third at 7.

Hillsdale coach Bill Wilkin, who had watched his Knights lose to Westmoor 59-42 a week ago, had his Knights come out in a stall offense. The play failed. Hillsdale missed the layins and short jumpers it was after.

Westmoor's Chris Tyeskey scored 14 first-half points and shot-blocker Jerry McNeil helped hold Hillsdale to two points in the second quarter. The Rams took a 21-10 intermission lead.

Afterward Hillsdale sped up the game. The Knights closed to within six at the end of the third quarter and came within one point twice in the last minute.

Westmoor hurried and forced its offense in the last quarter, and went cold at the same time. After three straight Westmoor turnovers, Hillsdale forward Tom Lucas hit two free throws with 0:33 left to bring the Knights within one, 43-42.

McNeil reciprocated with two charity shots at 0:17, but Hillsdale's Dave Smith hit a 10-foot jumper with 0:07 remaining to close the gap to 45-44. The Rams' Danny Williams hit the final points at the buzzer.

Hillsdale center Terry Batchelder led all scorers with 17 points. Tyeskey and Lucas had 16 apiece.

Mills-El Camino
El Camino played its best game of the year and Mills had to rally from a 55-55 tie in the last two minutes to win.

The Mills spark once again came off the bench in the person of Ara Sarkisian, who broke that tie with two free throws at 2:51 and 11 seconds later added the killing layin off a steal.

Carmino's Bedford Allen scored 17 points, including five straight that brought the Colts to that 55-55 tie. Joe Greenhalgh led Mills with 12.

It was a rough game, with 48 fouls whistled. Carmino hit just six of 24 from the line.

South SF-Serra
This was another rough game! 56 fouls were called. Five of SFF's first six players fouled out. SFF crept to within four points in the final quarter. But Serra's Tim Scott and Jeff Siragusa pulled the Padres away. Serra center Brian Duffy hurt SFF badly inside, scoring a game-high 23 points. Scott added 16.

Colt Coach Retires

A football career which spanned 35 years came to an end today when El Camino High School Coach Tom McCormick announced his retirement.

McCormick, who played in the National Football League for the 49ers, New York Giants and Los Angeles Rams and who later coached at Minnesota and at Green Bay with the late Vince Lombardi, is retiring to spend more time with his family.

Spine-tingling Finish For Skyline's Trojans

By JOHN MURPHY

APTOS — With Skyline College's basketball team trailing Moorpark 78-76, with one second left and the ball in Moorpark's possession, just about everyone present at the title game of the Cabrillo College Tourney in Aptos Saturday had counted the Trojans out.

Although Skyline went down to defeat the Trojans did provide a spine-tingling finish for a gym full of shocked onlookers.

Skyline, following a lay-in by its ace guard Nick Pappageorge, called for a time out with one second left on the clock. There wasn't much Skyline could do but to press the inbounds pass, intercept and get off a hurried shot. That's exactly what happened.

Pappageorge swept in front of the inbounds pass as his momentum carried him into the corner. In the same motion he heaved the ball at the basket while falling out of bounds. The shot squarely hit the front rim, bounced straight up and then rolled off the backside as the buzzer sounded.

Skyline advances to the championship bracket by virtue of a convincing 79-67 win over a highly-respected DeAnza quintet.

The Trojans got off to a strong start against DeAnza and never looked back. SC led 32-24 after a first half in which coach Lyle Newcomer cleared the bench, utilizing every player on the roster.

Veteran guards Nick Pappageorge and Frank

Skyline College guard Nick Pappageorge (white jersey) had scored 66 points in first two nights during the Cabrillo tourney.

Denucci paced the Trojans offensively. Pappageorge made 12 of 18 shots from the field and scored 28 points. Denucci added 20 points, hitting six of nine field goal attempts.

In two games Pappageorge has scored 66 points. Denucci has tallied 51 points and has made 19 of 23 shots from the field.

Freshman forwards Joe Adams and Mark Felix led a good Skyline board effort. Each had nine rebounds against taller competition. Felix added 18 points on nine field goals.

Over Easy

By JOHN HORGAN
Post Staff Writer

NOTE — A conflict has been festering for weeks in Half Moon Bay, a pleasant community on San Mateo County's Coastside. And the cause of the turmoil is horses, specifically horses which use the city's sidewalks. City officials are worried about the situation, especially in certain untoward instances in which the animals feel an urgent need to answer a call of nature. There has been talk of enacting special legislation which would ban horses from those sidewalks. If and when such a law is passed, can you imagine the consternation which would ensue if the Lone Ranger and his devoted sidekick, confidant and factotum, the amiable Tonto, hit that city some boring afternoon.

SCENE: It is high noon on a blustery winter day on Half Moon Bay's main street. Two men are slowly riding toward a savings and loan company. As they approach, a few of the curious townfolk stop and watch them. Neither stranger is well-dressed, although they both comport themselves with a certain dignity. There is a familiarity about them. One of them is wearing a seedy black mask.

The other is an Indian. He sports a rather tattered buckskin outfit. The masked man speaks first.)

MASKED MAN: Whoa there, big fellow. Easy, Silver. That's it. Watch out for that parking meter. Good boy. Stay off that sidewalk. You know how upset they get around here. Silver, don't munch on the meter. It's bad for your bile condition.

MASKED MAN'S ASSOCIATE: Kimosabe, I don't have a nickel, even an Indian head nickel, for the meter. I've got a Canadian quarter, a Moscone button and some old food stamps. They won't make it. Let's just tie up the horses and hope for the best.

MASKED MAN: Hmmmm. Easy, Silver. Well, Tonto, let's see. This deposit won't take but a minute. Why don't we double-park out here and I'll just run inside and take care of business. I shouldn't be five minutes... Silver, cool it. What's gotten into you?

(Suddenly, Silver, snorting and wiggling, begins to bestir himself. He lurches onto the sidewalk. The two men are aghast when Silver leaves his own sort of deposit within five feet of the savings and loan company's night deposit slot.)

If The Lone Ranger Rode Again

MASKED MAN (horrified): Silver, what are you doing? Good lord, look at what you've gone and done. Around these parts, boy, that's a felony. You've gone and broken the law, boy. The sheriff is out deputizing the citizenry right now. A lynch mob could be forming. Tonto, I think it's time to split.

MASKED MAN'S ASSOCIATE: Kimo, I always said that nag was a worthless fleabag, a candidate for Alpo. You should have junked that turkey in 1957 when you had the chance... Hey, look. Is that a flashing red light heading our way? Yep. Thanks a lot, Silver. Thanks a heap.

MASKED MAN: Tonto, forget the savings and loan. I'll meet you at the pass.

(Whirling his shabby steed into the slow lane, narrowly missing a small foreign car in the process, the masked man and his trusty horse canter off toward Highway 92. An angry mob is forming behind them.)

MASKED MAN: Hiyo, Silver, away.

MASKED MAN'S ASSOCIATE: I never liked him or his crummy horse anyway. And to think all this had to happen right next to a loading zone. We should have gone to Woodside in the first place.

(Reaching into his soiled saddle bag, the Indian grabs a skateboard and takes off down main street, leaving his horse standing idly in front of the parking meter. Meanwhile, a few citizens are beginning to murmur among themselves about all these odd goings-on.)

FIRST CITIZEN: I do believe that's the first horse I ever saw actually peel rubber.

SECOND CITIZEN: Maude, I believe you're right. That masked person looked plumb scared half to death. And did you check out his horse?

FIRST CITIZEN: Right. That creature was no bargain either. Did you get a load of that belly. The horse was positively spavine. By the way, was that guy in the silly mask anyway? He was a little weird, particularly the way he used that whip. I liked his chaps, though, especially that floral print.

SECOND CITIZEN: Maude, you devil, you mean you don't know who that was? That was the Lone Ranger.

FIRST CITIZEN: I don't care if it was Son of Tom Mix. Get me a shovel.

Christmas Dining Guide

BRIGHT LIGHTS
BY
LLOYD JOHNSON

Time to Relax Enjoy the Holidays

Christmas — when the joy of giving prevails everywhere. You'll also find that numerous restaurants, hotels and clubs represented in today's "Bright Lights" are making every effort to insure you and yours of the merriest holiday ever.

As always, one of the brightest messages of the holiday season is the one George Mardikian sends each year. Mr. Mardikian, along with his son, Haig, owns the world famed Omar Khayyam's restaurant in San Francisco, where celebrities from every walk of life come to "break bread." Mardikian, the personal friend of many presidents and prominent dignitaries throughout the world, is known for his dedication to America and goodwill to all. Santa Claus has double reason to stop at two of Nick Gust's Rockaway Beach restaurants, Nick's and The Moonraker. The Christmas Day menus are festive treats. Make reservations now. These two restaurants will also have plenty of action on New Year's Eve. Special attention: Captain Charles restaurant, another Gust enterprise, is dark now and will reopen Wednesday, January 7, 1976.

A festive holiday buffet will be featured on Christmas Day in the Coach and Horses dining room at Duntley's Royal Coach Motor Hotel, San Mateo. Roast Beef, Baked Sugar-cured Ham and Deviled Crab Legs will be among the main entrees, plus a selection of appetizers, salads and desserts. Adults, $5.95; children, $2.95.

The no cover-no minimum policy will prevail at Martinelli's Steak Pit in Millbrae on New Year's Eve. Steaks and lobster, house specialties, will be featured, along with dancing and party favors. The restaurant will not be open Christmas Day. Seems everyone in the Bayhill Lounge is expressing an abundance of holiday cheer. Much reason for the good spirits is the lively music of Clean Sheets, the group currently entertaining at this San Bruno spot. The exotic Castaway will be serving dinners as usual on Christmas Eve. However, the restaurant will be dark on Christmas Day. Compliments to Manager Peter Bovenberg and his staff for the beautiful holiday decorations throughout this Coyote Point dining establishment. A Prime Rib dinner will be the featured menu attraction at Kings Bowl when the 12th Annual New Year's Eve Party is presented in the Blue Peacock Restaurant. Prices remain the same as last year ($25 per couple and $12.50 per person) and include two cocktails and unlimited use of the bowling and billiard facilities. Even coffee and sweetrolls for the road. Drinks through the evening will be 75 cents.

Roy King, chef at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, in downtown San Mateo, has prepared an excellent menu for Christmas Day dining. For customers' convenience and to expedite service, the Peninsula Room will also be open. Reservations are now being taken for both Christmas and New Year's. Ample Municipal parking space. Lehr's Greenhouse Garden restaurant is one dining spot that really rolls out the red carpet for families with children on Christmas Day. Head gardener Murray Lehr posts special low prices for children under 10, and youngsters can order anything on the dinner menu from baked ham to roast duckling. It's a beautiful setting for Christmas dinner, filled with beautiful poinsettias and other flowers. Murray will open the doors at noon Christmas Day, and dinners will be served 'til 11 p.m.

Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City will be open and serving from 3:30 p.m. on Christmas Day and New Year's Day. On New Year's Eve, Dale Price, former musical director for Connie Francis and Doris Day, will entertain at the piano to help make the celebration one to be long remembered. There is no additional charge for Scotty Campbell's house party. Over in Pacifica's scenic Rockaway Beach, Enrico Romano will be giving his Romano's staff Christmas Day off (the restaurant will not be open). Reservations are already coming in for New Year's Eve dining, and Enrico expects quite a crowd.

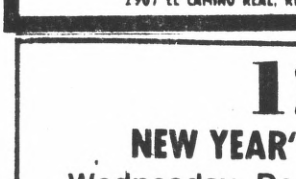

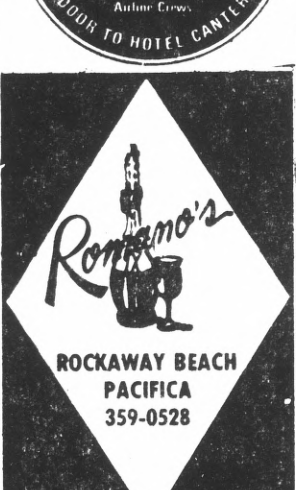

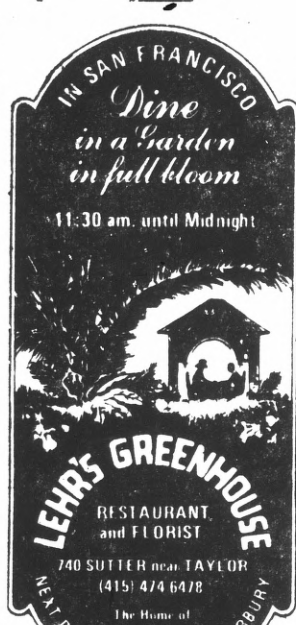

The Aquarium in the Sheraton Inn will be serving dinners on Christmas Day from noon to 9 p.m. The holiday dinner selections will be Roast Tom Turkey, Baked Ham or Salmon Steak ($5.45). A New York Strip or Top Sirloin Steak dinner will be slightly more. All dinners include salad or soup, candied yams or potatoes and dessert. Reservations are also being taken for the New Year's Eve bash. Dinner for two in the Aquarium on New Year's Eve is $22. A complete package for the evening is $45.

Tino's Gold Platter is a major topic of conversation with residents in and around the San Carlos area. Ever since the well known Costantino brothers took over this restaurant operation a few weeks ago, word spread like wild fire throughout the Peninsula. The three Costantino brothers also operate the successful Tino's restaurant in San Mateo.

Phil Lehr's Steakeries in downtown San Francisco are elegant settings for holiday dining. Whether you choose the original, with its fabulous jeweled curtain and circular staircase, or the breathtakingly beautiful, new Steakery across the street at the bottom of the Hilton Tower, your dinner at the Steakery is bound to be a memorable highlight of the holiday season.

Gene Compton's, one of the oldest establishments doing business in the Westlake Shopping Center, Daly City, has been serving the dine-out public since 1914. Recently, the restaurant introduced several new complete dinners, with one item featured every day of the week. Available after 4 p.m., you'll find such items as Veal Steak, Top Sirloin Steak and Baked Meatloaf, from $3.10.

Kathy Warner, a pretty employee of The Fisherman in Burlingame, is credited with the stunning Christmas decor which she created, designed and constructed herself. You'll be able to see her work throughout the holidays including New Year's Eve, when the restaurant will have two dance floors (Roberta Linn Show and Starbuck) and two dance floors. Special menu with complete dinners. No cover charge.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS 1975

Oh, what a glorious feeling, to be on the eve of welcoming the Bicentennial of our great country called the United States of America, which has contributed more to the human race than all other nations put together. How proud and grateful we should be to live in this blessed land, founded by all freedom-loving people who came to our shores searching for that precious commodity, namely the dignity of being a human being.

In all the years I have lived here as a naturalized American citizen, I have tried to show my gratitude, to pay a small part of my infinite debt to this wonderful country, by attempting to practice that beautiful and valuable motto of "Service above Self."

My first Christmas in the glorious city of San Francisco, fifty-three years ago, seems like yesterday. I can hear the carols and chiming of church bells. The whole atmosphere was charged with love and friendship, the true spirit of Christmas. Let us all pray that peace will again prevail and let us make our prayers action by spreading joy, love and good will to all mankind.

May the spirit of this holiday season be with everyone all over the world.

"Oh, come all ye faithful, joyful and triumphant!"

MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY BICENTENNIAL-NEW YEAR!!

Philadelphia, SSF Sister Cities

Most South San Francisco residents doubted Philadelphia would want anything to do with the City of South San Francisco, Councilman Terri Mirri noted, but agreed to accept South San Francisco as its bicentennial "sister city."

"In all due respect" to Colma, Mirri, said at this week's council meeting "some citizens thought it was like Colma linking up with New York City."

Mayor Frank Rizzo of Philadelphia has proclaimed the joint effort.

South San Franciscans have said their City Hall closely resembles Philadelphia's slightly better known hall.

"If you don't look too closely, we do have a City Hall like Philadelphia," said Mirri, co-chairman of the city's Bicentennial Committee.

Mirri said all the sister-city attention might seem superfluous, but he had just talked with Mayor Jane Baker of San Mateo, who told him their sister-city relationship with York, Pa., is proving to be valuable.

"The sister city program can be a real interrelation between one city and the next," Mirri said.

There are 2 million people in Philadelphia, considered a major eastern industrial site.

Mirri presented a matted print of Philadelphia Hall and South San Francisco's facsimile.

In the wake of the news of Philadelphia's acceptance of South San Francisco, Councilman Leo Padreddi announced his desire to seek another sister city — this time a foreign one.

Padreddi told the council he had studied the list of foreign cities still available and, focusing upon Italy, found that many of the major cities, including Assisi and Milazzo, already had been taken.

But, he said, Lucca, Italy, "was still available."

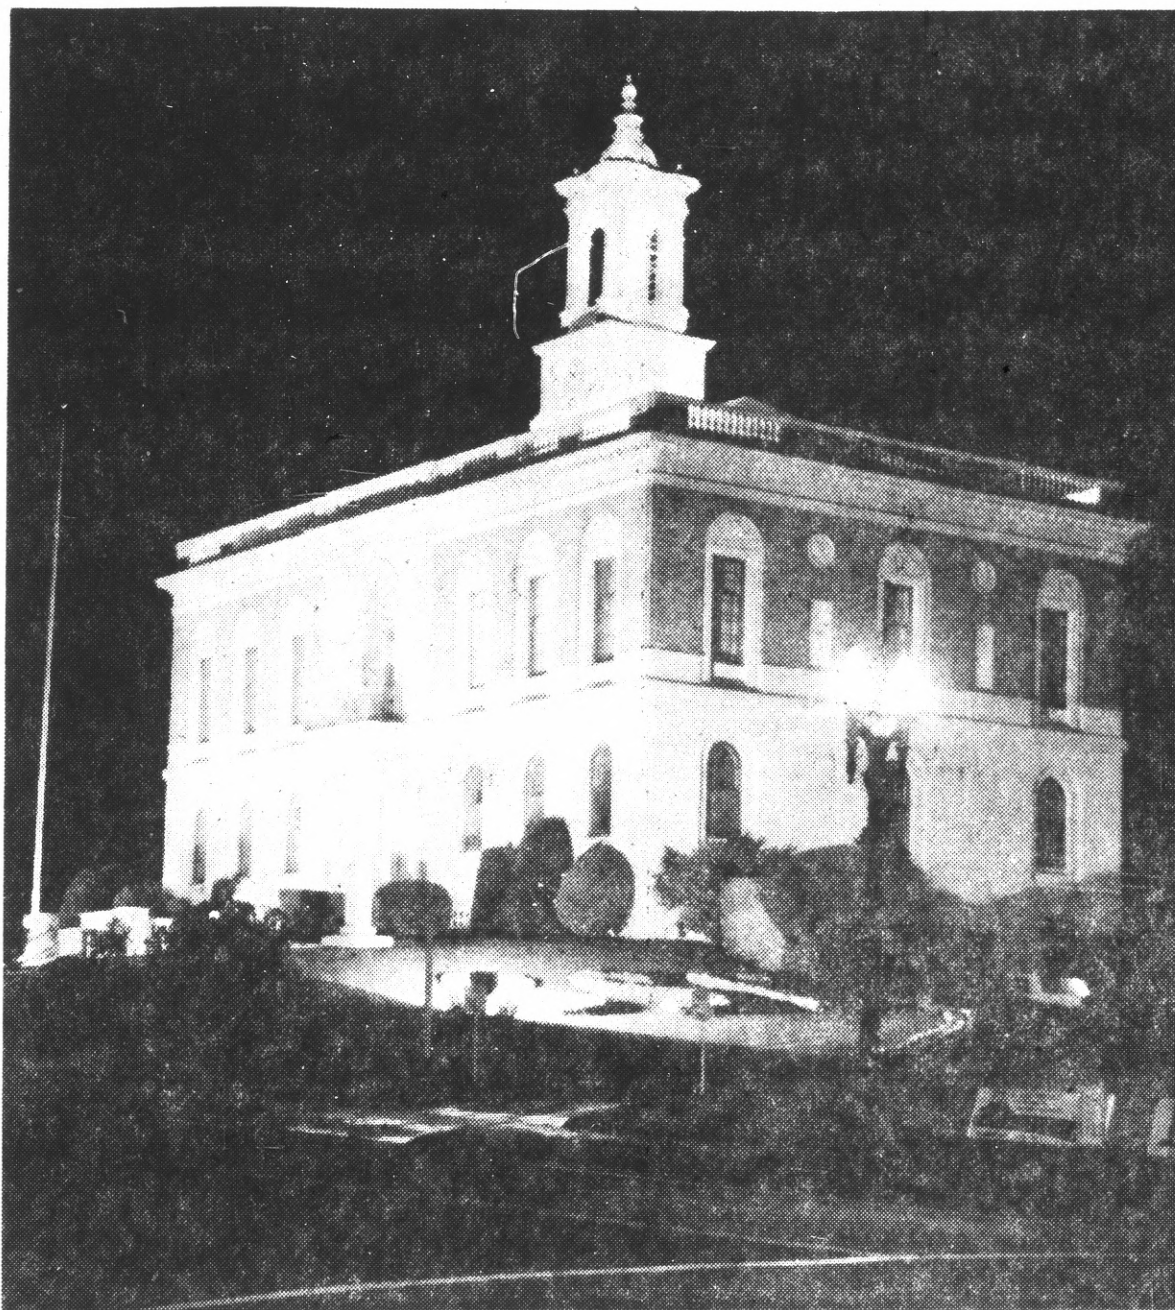

He asked the council to support his efforts to seek sister-city status with Lucca by writing to the mayor there.

Councilman Frank Mammini pointed out that sister cities should have something in common.

Since Lucca is a walled city Mammini asked, would South San Francisco be required to build walls along its boundaries?

Padreddi said many South San Franciscans, including several councilmen, had ancestors from Italy and some from Lucca.

Padreddi added he happens to be taking a trip to Italy in June and, "at my own expense," will be in touch with city officials there.

Flood District Subzone Changes Rapped

A proposal by the county to alter Colma Creek flood control subzone, adding previously unaffected South San Francisco sites, was criticized at the City Council meeting there Wednesday.

Property owners and businessmen who suddenly would find themselves in the flood zone protested the proposal, calling it unfair.

The council delayed any action on the proposal, presented by Deputy County Engineer V.K. Sanders and County Engineer Sid Cantwell.

One councilman particularly criticized provisions of the proposal, which would move the Tanforan area — much of it in San Bruno — from Subzone Two, which taxes 28 cents each $100 of assessed valuation, to Subzone Three, which taxes 16 cents.

"They're the ones who are going to benefit the most," said Councilman Frank Mammini. "Are we going to go along with something for the benefit of someone not in our city?"

In a staff report, Director of Public Services Frank Addiego said the subzone boundary change was proposed by the county to conform with boundaries of the flood hazard area designated by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The new concept proposes to annex a portion of the industrial park property, presently outside the flood zone. Those property owners would pay the 28-cent tax rate.

"The reason for considering inclusion of this property into the Colma Creek Flood Control Zone is that the flood control project now being implemented by the county will eliminate or substantially reduce the threat of flooding in this area," Addiego reported.

The proposal also asks that the Guy F. Atkinson property situated on Orange Avenue in South San Francisco be moved into Subzone 2 at the 28-cent rate, from a higher rated Subzone 3.

Before any tax can be levied, the county Board of Supervisors must hold a hearing.

The new tax would begin in 1977-78.

Several property owners asked how their property, previously untouched and unaffected by the frequent winter flooding of Colma Creek, suddenly could become a flooding area.

City Manager Ed Alario said that since there have been improvements in the blockage problems farther up Colma Creek, sites farther down the creek may experience more water.

"Of course there's been no flooding," Alario said. "There's been such bottlenecks above, the water never got down there."

Sanders added that recent studies have shown that the previously undesignated South San Francisco areas actually are subject to flooding.

"The Colma Creek flood project will alleviate the threat of flooding to those property owners, as well as others," Sanders said.

Cantwell said that in the case of the Tanforan property, the elevation has been changed due to grading, placing it at a higher elevation.

That is why, he said, the lower tax rate has been proposed.

Letters were read from Allen Building Association on East Harris, Tramwell-Crow Co. and Oxy-Dry Corp., protesting the rate increases on their properties.

Tom Chakos, of Hillsborough, who owns property at 273 E. Harris, asked for more time to seek legal counsel.

"There's got to be some fallacy by whoever made the original maps," Chakos said. "Our property never had a threat, but now we have become a flood area because of people above us."

Renaldo Pepi of Burlingame, with property on Lawrence, said he is opposed to the proposal.

"I can't see where we cure one evil and bring about another evil," he said, referring to the effect of Colma Creek improvements.

Charles Bull, a tenant on Utah Avenue, said the tax rate increase will have only the affect of an added rent on tenants at affected sites.

And Arthur "Buzz" Haskins, one of the best known excavators in the county, said he owns property which also suddenly will be in the flood district.

"There's no way in the world water will ever get down to the lower boundary lines," Haskins said.

"This proposal just lowered the rates in the Tanforan area and passed them off up here," he said. "It's another form of taxing the industry of South San Francisco."

The council agreed to study the matter 45 days

Outdoor Facilities Must Meet State Act Standards

The Field Act, which prescribes earthquake safety standards for public schools, also applies to outdoor education facilities, the San Mateo County Board of Education was informed Wednesday night.

County Schools Superintendent Dr. J. Russell Kent said the opinion, rendered by the district attorney's office, will have far-reaching effects because there are many outdoor education sites throughout the state which do not comply with Field Act Standards.

The Board of Education asked for the opinion in connection with its consideration of contracting to conduct the county's outdoor education program at either the Jones Gulch YMCA facility near La Honda or at the Cutter Boy Scout Camp near Big Basin. The contract is proposed as an alternative to construction of a new $4 million outdoor education facility adjacent to County Memorial Park at Loma Mar.

Harold F. Krank, executive for the San Mateo County Council, Boy Scouts of America, told the board he is "almost sure" the main hall at the Cutter location will meet the requirements of the Field Act.

He indicated that the council will undertake a $1,000 engineering study to determine if the hall meets the earthquake safety standards.

Other facilities, such as students and staff housing would have to be built at the location and would be constructed to meet Field Act requirements.

No representative of the YMCA was present at the meeting to report on the safety status of buildings at Jones Gulch, where the county schools have conducted the outdoor education program for several years.

In another matter, the board accepted a revision of the environmental impact relocation of a sewage storage pond.

The unit beside Pescadero Creek, where soil conditions were determined to be unstable, is to be relocated to a hillside where sewage would be stored in a concrete structure.

Colma Creek Work Cost Escalates

The $8 million flood control program for Colma Creek approved by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors in May, 1974, is now an estimated $9.9 million project, and could be more in the future, County Engineer S. H. Cantwell Jr. informed the board Tuesday.

Cantwell said it has been necessary to defer five items in the project between the mouth of the creek at the bay and the intersection of Oak Street and Mission Road in South San Francisco.

However, the engineer reported, the increased revenue from taxes on the zones of benefit from the project will help make up some of the additional cost.

Cantwell said, though, that unless means are found to fund the five deferred items during the present construction period (through June, 1981) they probably will not be accomplished until after 1989, when the cost of the current project will be paid off.

The engineer said three of the deferred items — the Airport Boulevard bridge, the San Mateo Avenue bridge and the channel work from Utah Avenue to Navigable Slough — have capacities slightly below the adopted level to carry runoff from the heaviest storm which can be expected once every 50 years.

The other two deferred items are the Orange Avenue bridge and channel work from Linden Avenue to 12-Mile Creek.

Cantwell said his report was merely to keep the board informed of the status of the project and required no action.

Judge Denies Job Return

Robert F. Cawley, a former coroner's office investigator, has lost another round in his fight for reinstatement and some $42,000 in back pay.

An opinion by George R. Coan, an administrative law judge for the State Department of General Services, upholds the firing of Cawley Feb. 6, 1973, following an incident in which a $500 check was reported stolen from the effects of a dead man.

Cawley's criminal conviction on charges of conspiracy to commit forgery was overturned by the District Court of Appeal.

Two other former coroner's investigators, William Scott and Ronald Kindred, were convicted of conspiracy, forgery and unlawful possession of a check at the same time.

In his ruling, Coan stated that the termination of Cawley is "affirmed and his appeal is denied."

The opinion said Cawley had been apprised of the existence of the check, knew of the theft of the check and that he intended to share in the proceeds.

Furthermore, Coan related, Cawley failed to report the theft to his superiors and therefore was guilty of misfeasance in office.

If the County Civil Service Commission adopts the decision, as it is expected to do at its Jan. 9 meeting, Cawley has the option to petition for review of the decision in Superior Court, Asst. Dist. Atty. James Aiello said the appeal could be carried as high as the State Supreme Court.

Cawley said Thursday that he intends to "keep fighting" for vindication and for reinstatement and the pay he feels is due him.

Broadmoor Police District Still Seeking Independence

The Broadmoor Police Protection District will not give up its endeavor to find alternatives to annexation to Daly City.

So reported J. Wayne Johnson, a member of the district Board of Commissioners, to the San Mateo County Local Agency Formation Commission Wednesday in Redwood City.

The commission held its first public hearing on the Sphere of Influence study prepared by the commission staff. A second hearing is scheduled for Jan. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Daly City City Hall.

"We'll try anything that is necessary to maintain our independence," Johnson told the commission.

The study, prepared by the LAFCO staff, assigns a "zero" sphere of influence to the police district and states that Daly City is the "logical provider" of police protection to the area.

The study's recommendations, if adopted, would eventually combine eight existing public agencies into three entities — the City of Daly City, the Town of Colma and the North County Sanitation District.

The other agencies included in the study are the Bayshore Sanitary District, the Colma Fire Protection District, the Broadmoor Police Protection District, the Diamond Public Utility District and the Colma Highway Lighting District.

It is noted in the report that the Broadmoor Police Protection District faces a projected deficit of $59,000 by 1977-78 and that it would take special state legislation to permit an increase in the district tax rate to offset the loss.

In contrast to Johnson, Mayor Victor G. Kyriakis of Daly City and Colma City Engineer Edwin H. Smith said the sphere of influence study recommendations are acceptable to both communities.

No Formal Complaints In Recall

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Broadmoor Police Commissioner John McCloskey, subject of a recall petition aimed at ousting him from office, said last week he had filed a complaint with the District Attorney's office charging "irregularities" in the way the petition was presented to signatories.

Contacted by this newspaper, San Mateo County Dist. Atty. Keith Sorenson said Wednesday that while there have been verbal allegations of misrepresentation in circulation of the recall petition, no formal complaint has been made.

Sorenson said he has not undertaken any investigation, "because there has been no one filing any written complaint of misrepresentation, nor has anyone personally complained or reported any misconduct to my office."

Last week, McCloskey announced he had learned that some people signing the recall petition had been told the object of the petition was to voice objection over possible annexation to Daly City, and was "not directed at me personally."

The petition began circulating in Broadmoor last August. Within the 90-day time limit set by law for gathering 10 per cent of the registered voters' signatures, some 376 persons had signed — more than the required number.

Many did not know they were signing to remove him from office, McCloskey told this newspaper.

McCloskey said he had asked Sorenson to investigate the matter, hoping the petition would be ruled invalid.

"There also could be some prosecutions if the district attorney feels they are justified," McCloskey said.

Sorenson agreed he indeed would investigate, "because it is a crime to make misrepresentations concerning recall petitions."

SCENE AFTER FATAL CRASH

Rescuers attempt to revive one victim while the injured driver looks on in a convertible involved in a crash in South San Francisco Friday afternoon. It took 30 minutes to get driver out of auto. Driver of another car was apprehended a short distance away, police said, and charged with drunken driving, felony manslaughter and felony hit run. One victim died and two were injured in the car. The other driver also was injured.

Woman Killed In Crash

A 59-year-old Concord woman was killed and three other persons injured in a broadside collision in South San Francisco Friday afternoon.

A South San Francisco resident, Carl Tofoano, 22, 824A Antoinette Lane, was arrested on charges of vehicular manslaughter, felony hit and run and drunken driving.

Dead on arrival at Kaiser Hospital, according to police was Juanita Jankowski. Admitted to Kaiser for treatment of injuries was a daughter, Kathryn, 23, of Oakland. A second daughter, Judy Jankowski, 22, of Concord was taken to Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City.

Tofoano also was taken to Kaiser for treatment, police said.

Airport Bond Sale Moving

Sale of revenue bonds to provide $143 million to complete San Francisco International Airport's North Terminal and Central Parking garage has been approved by the Finance Committee of the San Francisco County Board of Supervisors.

The 2-1 recommendation goes to the full Board Jan. 5.

A key factor in the committee's approval was said to be Airport Manager William Dwyer's testimony that the money to repay the bonds will come from airport revenues, not from taxation of San Francisco homeowners.

"Airport revenues have been more than adequate to defray all operational costs, plus debt servicing on outstanding bond issues, plus payment to the general fund of the City of San Francisco of $2 million for the past two years," Dwyer said.

"The airport has been in the black for the past 19 years," Dwyer added and forecasts indicate a sound financial future.

The North Terminal and Central Parking garage have been started with funds from the $97 million bond issue of 1967. Those funds are being used to complete the terminal building. The new funds will provide terminal connectors, aircraft loading areas, and will complete the garage.

An Info Sharing Test Set

The start of the first year of a criminal justice information sharing computer system for the county and its cities was authorized Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The board took the action on the recommendation of County Manager M. D. Tarshes, with the understanding the city councils indicate by April 1, 1976, interest in sharing in the operational cost of $800,000 a year after the program becomes fully functional in 1979.

For the first-year start-up, the county will accept a federal grant of $186,500, a state contribution of $10,361 and will pay the full county-city share of $10,361.

Tarshes said cost-sharing and management questions must be raised with the cities.

"We should not get too far down the road in the program, then wake up to the fact the cities don't adequately support the program to keep it going," Tarshes told the board.

Implementation of the program, known as PRISM (Participatory Records and Information System in San Mateo County), will require the addition of a project director, two programmer analysts and a typist clerk to the county's Electronic Data Processing Department.
